

a susceptor for supporting a substrate to be coated in the hydrogen containing gaseous atmosphere;

said susceptor including an insert having a surface; and

B₁
ω a metal carbide layer of a given thickness forming at least a portion of said surface, said portion supporting the substrate, said metal carbon layer being inert with respect to the hydrogen of the gaseous atmosphere.

